And in January to: Simone Humby, Jasmine F, Victoria McClarity, Tasha Williams, May Kimpton, Tanya Strike, Jane Hills, Jane Shipway, Annie W, David Spooner, Dave Lee, Chris Ensink, Liz Outten, Chantelle B, Jan Morgan, Jasmine G, Mary Keeley, Ben Jane, Jak W, Pam Day-Smith, Chris Sealey, Jess Sealey, Linda Drysdale, Peter Hills, Saoirse Noonan

Avril Evens has had to give up distributing the Gazette in the Trelugga and Tresasddern area. On behalf of the Gazette Committee, may I thank Avril for her years and years of help with the Gazette. We wish her well for the future.

Tanya Strike has kindly stepped in to take over Avril's distribution round. Thank you Tanya and welcome to the team.

This is the last issue in which you'll find and advert for Ivan's Car Sales. Ivan is semi-retiring and will run his stock down, keeping his office and concentrating on sourcing vehicles for customers. He has always done this; 50% of the cars he sells are sourced to order. Thank you, Ivan, for your support over the years and we wish you well in your retirement.

This issue covers December and January. It contains your Christmas wishes in lieu of sending cards, which should save a few trees. Thank you for the donations which accompanied the messages. Half the money received will go towards buying something for the new pavilion at the Rec. The other half will go to bolster the Gazette's finances and to pay for the colour supplement, which you'll find in the centre of this issue. Thanks to everyone who sent me their photos.

May I take this opportunity to say thank you to our advertisers for their support throughout the year. Thanks also to all our hard working distributors, as well as our regular and occasional contributors, who all do so much to ensure the Gazette remains viable.

The next issue will be out at the beginning of February; meanwhile, on behalf of the Gazette committee, may I wish you all a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

From Tony Halliday and family:

Thank you to the Regatta Committee for their very generous donation following monies raised in August. A total of £500 has been sent to Kings College Hospital in London where it will be passed to the Listen Group who provide practical support to transplant patients and their families. We were lucky enough to be able to use a flat on the hospital grounds free of charge for 6 weeks whilst Jan was in Intensive Care. This proved to be a great help as we didn't have to rely on local

From Sue Cadman:

Thank you Moira for your kind words in the November Gazette regarding the new dog poo bins. The two new bins have been well received and are certainly well used! As Gav and I installed them and I empty them, if there is any problem, please call me on 291129. I don't think they will drop off the posts, but you never know!! Please note that any red bins are emptied by Cornwall Council and are therefore not my responsibility.

[Not content with her work to rid the village of dog poo, Sue has gone on to set up the "Friends of Kennack" group with a view to organising beach cleaning. You can find out more in the "What's On" section. Ed]

From Rev. Deirdre:

I should like to say a huge THANK YOU for the countless numbers of cards, good wishes, flowers, gifts and visits from so many of you - and of course your prayers - following my emergency operation back in September. I am making slow but steady progress, but it will be some time before I am back to 'normal' (whatever that is!). Meanwhile, I wish you a very happy and blessed Christmas and New Year.

From Paul and Jacqui Dunmall:

A big thank you to Jeb Preston and the Parish Council for our tree re-planting scheme at Bodrigy Lodge. Your help is much appreciated.

CHRISTMAS DAY SWIM

The charity for this year's Christmas Day Swim is Meningitis Now.

It would be great if you feel brave enough to join us for a quick dip (in fancy dress of course) at 12 noon on Christmas Day. If you're not feeling that brave, it would be lovely to see you on the beach.

Over the years you have given fantastic support for this event and raised a lot of money for the various charities. Swimmers, collectors, supporters, judges, mulled wine makers, poster and form printers, champagne donators: without you the event wouldn't happen, so a huge thank you to all.

Hopefully the sun will shine and the sea will be calm for this year.

Look forward to seeing you there.

Sponsorship forms available from: The Cadgwith Cove Inn, Ruan Minor Stores, or me on 290073.

IN THE MAILBAG

I feel compelled to respond to the letter in the November issue of the Gazette. I am a local horse owner and rider (although not the accused!) and am concerned that a) the events were actually a bit of a misunderstanding, and b) the letter has shed a bad light on local horse riders. I know and ride with a lot of local riders, and we are all very aware of showing due consideration and courtesy to fellow road-users and pedestrians. We are not always shown the same consideration and courtesy by car drivers, which is scary and dangerous for horse and rider.

The complainant mentioned that traffic was trying to negotiate the corner where the horses and riders were located: I suspect that one of the horses had been moved onto the pavement to allow the cars to pass and/or because the horse had become agitated by traffic passing too quickly/closely.

I appreciate that the sight of a relatively large horse on the pavement may have been alarming, but I'm sure the rider would have taken the complainant's safety into consideration, too, and made the best decision, under the circumstances, for all concerned.

Yours sincerely,

Deanne Greenwood

School Spor

Grade-Ruan Under 5s

Grade-Ruan School is making lots of bakers! Y3-4 have fantastic just finished their half term of after school club cooking, with a bake off of making cupcakes and decorating them with sprinkles. Nathan won the prize for being star baker of the evening - and he even gave four away to other children. This linked in well with this half term's value of 'generosity'. Well done Nathan. The Y5-6s really enjoyed their first cookery session with 12 keen bakers creating delicious chocolate brownies with white chocolate chips. The children and Miss Spence would like to say a HUGE thank you to Tasha for all her help in the cookery sessions for both age groups!

Congratulations to Toby and Jake from the Orca Class, who have become the first two members of the exclusive Super 6 club this year. Super 6 status is awarded to those children in Year 6 who set a great example to the rest of the school in terms of their behaviour, helpfulness, kindness, respect for others and listening skills. Jake and Toby model these attributes perfectly, and as a result are achieving great success academically. Well done!

We've had two lots of fundraising this month - the School Council's first event was Crazy Hair Day, which raised £55 for the Little Harbour Hospice, the charity that the school council have decided to raise money for this year. Children in Need Day raised £31 through a non-uniform day. Thank you to everyone that supported these events.

A huge thank you to the Friends of Grade Ruan for a great Halloween disco and thanks to Proper Job Disco for such a fun time. The evening was enjoyed by all.

Thank you to those who joined members of the school that attended the Remembrance Sunday Service. Thank you to Chloe and Jake who laid a poppy wreath on behalf of the School and to Ruan Rascals who came over from their training for the two minutes silence. On Remembrance Day the whole school joined members of the public at the war memorial at 11am where we held a 2 minutes silence and sang a remembrance song - 'Remember'.

Congratulations to Issabelle for earning a very special award, for a random act of kindness recently. Miss Spence was approached by a parent and also took a phone call from playgroup to say how impressed they were with Issabelle, as on her way to school she stopped and got off her bike and picked up some rubbish that had escaped from someone's bin in

The school's participation in the Mullion Primary School Cluster Sports held at Mullion School is going well. At the most recent event, Richard, Kai, Thalia, Ashton, Rose and Holly attended the badminton event at Mullion School, taking part in a range of different badminton activities over the afternoon. A big well done to all of the children involved, they represented the school very well and all had a very fun afternoon. Thank you to the parents who went along to support the children and to Melissa and Kate for driving.

Mullion School was visited recently by a team of external reviewers from Challenge Partners, to carry out what is in effect a mini-Ofsted inspection. The group of four reviewers - an Ofsted Inspector, a Headteacher and two Deputy Headteachers, were from schools based all over the country as far afield as Essex, London and Somerset.

After two vigorous days of observations across all subjects, and reviewing our examination results, self-evaluation and School Improvement Plan, they confirmed Mullion remaining as 'Outstanding'. The Maths and Performing Arts departments were held up as 'Areas of Excellence' and an example for other schools who may wish to seek support in these areas.

Most pleasing of all was the complimentary things said about the Mullion pupils. The Lead Reviewer remarked that pupils at Mullion were 'very proud of their school and excited to show off the work they were doing in lessons'. Mr Randle said: "I would therefore like to take this opportunity to thank all of our pupils for their enthusiasm and hard work in continuing to make Mullion School an outstanding place to be and learn."

National Trust News December 2015

National Trust

Well so far so good for this winter, although, now we've finally finished putting right all the storm damage from February 2014, I'm probably tempting fate by saying so! Rebuilding Kynance beach access steps and repairing Mullion Harbour were by far the biggest jobs of 2015, but as the year draws to a close we've embarked on our next project. Anyone who's walked down the hill to Poltesco recently can't fail to have noticed the large scaffold and tarp tent over the millhouse. The clock was ticking, as in order to be able to continue with the project over the next 6 months, the contractors needed to strip the roof before the end of October, before any bats were tempted to hibernate in there. The bats will of course be welcome to move back in once we're all done! An extensive list of repairs and renovations is planned for this historic cottage, taking us through into 2016.

Elsewhere in the parish, our ponies will be back on the cliffs between Poltesco and Cadgwith shortly, having spent much of the last year at Beagles, near Coverack. The kissing gate at the end of Friar's Lane has been rebuilt recently, as the furry little dears outwitted us last Christmas by learning to squeeze through it!

Unfortunately our farm tenants at Bodriggy have had some problems with irresponsible dog owners allowing their pets to chase and sometimes attack the sheep, causing some to have to be put down, and others to abort their lambs. Please be aware that your dog being out of sight, or chasing but not actually catching sheep, are never acceptable! If you witness any incidents of sheep worrying, or have any other things to report regarding the livestock there, please call Rosuick Farm on 07511 461532.

The Ranger and volunteer team have been out and about caring for the many miles of footpaths in our patch fixing gates, fences and stiles. As well as protecting the choughs, which had a whopping brood of 5 healthy chicks this summer, our volunteers got involved in October in helping protect the young seal pups at Lizard Point from accidental disturbance. It was three weeks before the seal pups left the beach and headed out to sea to find independence. You can read a lovely story about the Lizard Point seals on the Cornwall Seal Group website.

The Lizard wildlife watchpoint had a successful second year, with over 24,000 people stopping to chat to our volunteers about choughs, gannets, seals and everything else wildlife related. Although volunteers and visitors missed having such regular sightings of the choughs this year as they'd moved a little further around the coast, they were delighted by some super sightings of dolphins, basking sharks and even whales this summer. The Lizard Wireless Station at Bass Point also had a very successful year, in fact it's been the busiest year there since the museum opened in 2001! As well as having plenty of visitors, the station also featured in the 'Sound of our Shores' project and on BBC Countryfile Programme in July. We'll be open again at Easter, if you fancy joining either the watchpoint or the wireless station team.

Our Wild Lizard Education Ranger Claire's been busy, with a number of local schools including Grade-Ruan and Landewednack joining her for foraging and bushcraft fun at Poltesco, and her spooky Halloween half term event was popular. She'll be running a family Christmas Crafts session on Saturday 5th December 1pm - 4pm at Poltesco, call our office below to book.

Please do call by the Shepherd's Huts or give us a ring if you'd like to chat to us about our work locally.

Rector's Ramblings

A s we prepare to celebrate Christmas, perhaps gathering together with family and friends, in the comfort of home and the familiar, I am reminded of the different example of the saints, after whom many of our villages are named. They were people who did not stay at home, with all its comforts, but went out to share the love of God with strangers.

In this they followed the example of Jesus, who left more than anybody (a greater home and heavenly joy) to come to us. He did not think that being equal with God in all his glory and joy was something to be gripped and held for himself alone. But he left it all to come and live with us, as one of us ... so that he could share that joy and glory with us.

And, like those saints, for whom he set the example, he came to stay. God had appeared to people in the past – to Abraham, Moses and many more – but this was not an appearance; passing through. Jesus came to abide with us, living and growing with us, sharing his life with us; growing up in Nazareth, gathering his disciples around him, and – through his death, resurrection and the pouring out of his Spirit – with millions throughout this world as his people, sharing his life.

We so often tend to do the opposite. We stay with the comfortable and familiar - home family and friends. We may visit strangers, go outside our comfort for a while, but we don't stay with them. And at Christmas, when Jesus really went out and stayed with strangers (that's us), we tend to keep to our comforts even more. And, as the world gets ever more frightening, it gets even harder to go out of our way for the strangers in our world.

And yet we may only be celebrating where we are because of those saints who left their homes to make a home here amongst the wild people of Cornwall and build something new.

Perhaps we can't all go, like them, like Jesus, but maybe we can open our doors to welcome them in, or take time to give real friendship to someone who is left outside all our comfortable celebrations this Christmas. In a world that is in danger of shutting out the stranger, perhaps we can be just a bit more like Jesus.

Every Blessing in Christ, for Christmas and the New Year.

Cadgwith Pilot Gig Club - 2015.

It's been a busy year for the Gig Club, which as always started with winter training in the relatively calm waters of St Anthony. There must be easier ways to burn off those Christmas mince pies, but the thought of a sunny Scilly start line in early May always provides a bit of motivation...

The World Championships instead brought rain and force 8 Easterlies, perfect for Tamarisk and Buller but not so much fun for river based clubs who rarely face such conditions, and all Cadgwith crews had good results across the weekend, with traditional celebrations to follow.

Soon after saw the arrival of a set of beautiful new doors for the Gig Shed in the Cove. The originals were destroyed by the February storms of 2014, and once the insurance was settled, local Carpenter Stuart Hammill spent over 3 months creating these from scratch at his workshop in Kuggar. Every knot painstakingly cut and filled, every plank treated twice, every joint measured and adjusted to fit, a brilliant job which we are all very grateful to Stuart for.

Summer weather (before the middle of August anyway) was settled and boats were out from the Cove regularly to make the most of it. Most weekends saw over 4 crews of Junior rowers out, many for the first time, and always enjoying it, getting stuck in and encouraging each other. Barely 8 weeks later at the u/14 Championships at Hayle, we entered 4 Junior crews, almost all rowing competitively for the first time (one crew politely asked their Coxswain to shout louder at them as it made them row better!) All the Juniors did the club proud across the year, and we are really grateful for the support of parents who helped in various ways over the season.

Buller Day brought sunshine and great rowing for everyone, and again the success of the day was thanks to so many people who helped with the huge variety of jobs which have to be done before, during and after the event. Peter and Tony night, Buller Cup, and the great performances and commitment of the u/16's Juniors which got them on the podium at their Newquay Championships all slowly brought the summer to an end.

The Senior's Newquay Championships in September saw a top 15 finish for the Men's A , and competitive rows from the Women's crew, and as nights draw in thoughts now turn to winter boat maintenance (and the fundraising we rely on from Buller Day and Fish BBQ's to pay for it)

We are very grateful to Ross and everyone at Poldhu Café for sponsoring our rowing kit and jackets, the Cadgwith and Ruan Community Trust for Junior oars and lifejackets and everyone in the Club, community and Cove who helps and supports us as a Club.

Merry Christmas, and here's to a successful and enjoyable year ahead for everyone.

Thank You

Bonfire Night

Once again, Roddy Hall put on a most spectacular firework display. The event was a great success, despite us not being able to put up a tent for the bar, on account of the wind. Jon Spalding kindly made his site office available, and the bar was run from there. The area was a bit of a quagmire, but people seemed to take it all in good spirit.

Thanks to everyone who helped the Committee before, during and after the event, especially the Green family for allowing their field to be used to launch the fireworks; also Brian Brown and Gavin Cadman who helped Mike Fleetwood with the back breaking task of clearing all the fragments of fireworks from the launch site; Judith Green, Linda Drysdale and Ruth Alfrey-Cryan for manning the gates, Sue Cadman for helping with the bar; Rachel Holder and Di Fleetwood for ensuring no-one fell over in the mud.

And, of course, thanks to everyone who supported the event. It wasn't set up to be a fund raiser, but we made a profit, which will be added to our funds for fitting out the new pavilion.

The Pavilion

The pavilion is progressing to schedule and within budget at this stage. Digging the foundations proved to be a bit more work than was anticipated, due to the amount of concrete - 38 tons of it - buried in the ground under the old pavilion. It seems excessive for the size of the old pavilion and I'd be most interested if anyone knows why it was put there.

Why so much concrete?

A few people have kindly offered to donate equipment for the new pavilion. We will be publishing a list soon of items required, along with cost, and we hope it will form the basis of a "wedding list" type system, where you will be able to choose an item or a number of items to suit your budget. Gifts will be acknowledged in a book or on a plaque; details of which are still being finalised.

Sports Day

The next Rec event will be the May Festival, to be held on Spring Bank Holiday weekend, 28th, 29th and 30th May 2016. We're planning to incorporate a sports day into the event, probably on the Sunday. Please get in touch if you can help organise any matches or games as part of this.

History repeated itself at October's 'Quiz Night At

The Village Hall' with THE MIXED BUNCH repeating their triumphant September performance to take the October winners' crown as well.

Just as at the previous Quiz Night, it was 'The All-Nighter' round which proved to be decisive ............ and how!! We all thought that 47 points out of a possible 60 points was a superb performance last month but a monumental 57 points out of a possible 60 by The Bunch this time out shattered the record books and left all of their opponents gasping for breath and trailing in their wake. CLIFFHANGERS fought hard to prove they were 'The best of the rest' but were left trailing in second place by a great big 11 1/2 points margin.

Although a couple of our regular teams were missing we were pleased to welcome two new teams, A 'BROOM SHORT OF A FEW BRIS-TLES' and 'MUNDYS MOOR', to our quizzing ranks. Both the New Broom and the M's produced very creditable first time performances but it was the Ms who trailed in at seventh spot to claim the infamous 'WOODEN SPOON' at their very first attempt.

QUIZ NIGHT NEWS

Rumour has it though that the Spoon is proudly displayed in a very local front porch for all the world to see!

Skinny and Mags delivered a wide 'Spectre' of 'intriguing' Guest Round questions which certainly had the teams 'shaken and stirred'. A big thank you was given to both of them BUT watch out, it's Kevin's turn next time so you have been warned!

After the calculators had cooled and the points double checked the final 'scores on the doors' were as follows:

Position Team Score
1 st	The Mixed Bunch	134.5
2 nd	Cliffhangers	123.0
3 rd	The Buccaneers	113.5
4 th	A Broom Short	113.0
5 th	The New Crew	108.0
6 th	New Blood	92.0
7 th	Mundys Moor	73.0

Thanks again everyone for another super evening of quizzy fun and games. Take care and see you all next time.

CLOSE ENCOUNTER WITH THE NHS, PART II

By Tony Halliday

We were told early in the morning of the 12th July that there was a high potential match. The team looking after Jan (and us) had seen the effects of the previous day's late cancellation and passed the news on as soon as they felt confident that a transplant was a high likelihood. We were told to expect the preparations to take most of the day and once again were asked to manage our expectations - just in case. Our points of contact were kept to a minimum to ensure that accurate information was passed to us, the Transplant Coordinator and the Lead Consultant were the principle points of contact and we had to respectfully allow everyone else involved to focus on the intensive care situation. As well as being ventilated Jan was on a type of Dialysis and being infused with sedatives, blood coagulants, anti-coagulants, antibiotics, Insulin, blood pressure medication, heart rate medication and food... Her attendant nurse constantly checked vital signs (as they had all week) and made any adjustments necessary to ensure that a transplant was still a viable option. Those nurses were rotated on a regular basis, occasionally we would see the same one for two days in a row but as their role was so intense they routinely had one rest day in 3. Their commitment was so impressive, they were all extremely technically proficient as you would hope! Most were also very empathic towards us and would try and pass any positive signs on but they would all be careful to report the facts as they were right then and right there, carefully avoiding speculation.

Consultants, Registrars, Doctors and Junior Doctors also rotated out after very long (15 hours and more) shifts. Although there were always more than 20 patients in their immediate care they were always able to pass the latest news on. Now we were waiting for the operation we had to curb our enthusiasm for minute by minute updates and completely trust that 'when they knew, we would know'. We had signed 'assent' paperwork the previous day, essentially as Jan was an adult they took complete control over her care and did not have to seek permission to proceed. As a formality they are required to confirm that we as her family understand why they acting they way that they are and the importance of them doing so - big thumbs up from us there! We were kept informed at regular intervals, final confirmation coming a little after 6pm. We saw Jan to theatre sometime around 7, amazed that they could transfer her with so many devices attached. Her family support team now numbered 8 1/2, we headed to my sister's flat across London where we could all wait for updates. There were 3 incredibly business-like phone calls, around 8:30 in the evening - confirmation of who I was followed by 'we have started'. 10:30 'The transplant is in place'. 01:20 'We have finished, the patient is doing well'. A few tears, then bed.

Some serious discussions had been had ensuring that we all understood that whilst a transplant was the only option, it didn't guarantee a successful outcome. The first day post op couldn't have been better, there was an immediate stabilisation of Jan's systems and no untoward signs. Sedatives were being withdrawn and the wake up process was underway. Unfortunately as we visited on the second day we were told that Jan was going back to theatre as a bleed was suspected. Although this is almost a routine occurrence because of the incredibly fine line that the Doctors walk in terms of managing a patient's systems we were still very concerned over this latest turn of events. Another 3 hours with the Surgical team (including the family observation that Jan does like to go to the theatre when in London) and we were once again told that the situation was as good as it could be.

For us there were further demonstrations of first class medical care, for Jan it was a gradual weaning off her support systems as her donor graft took more responsibility for managing her systems. Sedatives were withdrawn, less oxygen was required for ventilation, blood pressure, heart rate and the blood's ability to clot all improved. After a week we started to see the first signs of Jan trying to breathe by herself – a tracheostomy had been performed so that as Jan woke she wouldn't be traumatised by having a tube fitted down her throat. We had been told what the various screens around her bed actually meant and had spent most of the time scanning them for positive signs. One morning a nurse said that she had noticed a slight difference in how heavy Jan's eyelids were when she was doing her checks, later that day we saw the first signs of movement in over two weeks. They were only yawns and a slight flickering of the eyes but they had a fairly major impact on us.

It was at this point that Jan came back on line. She remembers Tom, myself and her nurse of the day talking to her. Rather bizarrely the patient opposite was called Michael and was a very restless individual, there were lots of requests for Michael to stop rolling around and behave, this lead Jan to wonder why her brother-in-law was a patient in the same hospital?

The critical care eased off a little at this point, Jan was doing well and whilst she was still monitored very closely the bulk of the medical resource was focussed on more critical cases. We could get involved more, Jan couldn't talk because of the trachi so we all became expert lip readers (some were better than others). Initially Jan was paralysed because of her previous organ failure and the extended wait for the operation. This was diagnosed early and thanks to a focussed physio team we were able to help Jan to regain enough independence to get transferred to Derriford around the middle of August. A short stay there, a different but equally committed team allowed her home on the 28th of August. Whilst Jan could only manage a short distance on crutches at this point her condition was a million miles from just a few weeks earlier

We still have a support team in November and will continue to do so, we see less of them but they are always available. We are told that the organ graft is doing fantastically well and that is reflected in Jan's general progress.

It wasn't by choice but we have had a front seat show of just what the NHS is capable of. The TV dramas and documentaries don't do it justice, there are some small flaws here and there but there are in any organisation. They were unable to identify the cause of the Liver failure but luckily for us they were able to fix it.

We still have to thank they donor's family and we will do. Whilst we have to remain anonymous we can at least let them know how much their gift has been valued and what it means for us.

Although the family's and close friends attention became so focussed on Jan's situation, we were all very aware of the depth of support, best wishes and goodwill that was coming from the whole community. We did try and let people know how she was at the various stages of her illness, it seemed to be the right thing to do as so many people were expressing concern. This support was highly appreciated and at times quite humbling. There are too many people to thank individually but we would like to say thank you to everyone in the community for their support, it really did mean a lot.

Gardening in the Winter

I started my last article saying how the season had changed, well since then there has been no sign of frost. The month started with the warmest recorded November day then a few days later it was the warmest November night- time temperature recorded. Even on the 4th of November I saw a pair of swallows performing acrobatics. I am not sure if they missed the last flight to South Africa or they heard what a good show the Fireworks were to be on the Rec so decided to hang around for a little longer. I must say the Redwings are now abundant, they are busily stripping the hedgerows of all the berries and chattering well nearly as loud as the starlings. But a truer sign that the season is on the change is that I have changed my hat, one that does not blow off so readily and keeps my ears warmer.

What to do in the garden is the real question. My first suggestion is to do as much as possible of paths or put some boards down to spread the weight and help to preserve the soil structure. It really does not take long to become a quagmire with regular foot traffic. One bonus with the damp soil is that any deeper rooted weeds that you do not admit to having in your patch of Eden will come out much easier now with the aid of a garden fork. Get in amongst your beds and borders and remove any dead, dying and fallen leaves from on top of your plants, especially the exposed crowns of the herbaceous perennials. In most cases if you leave them there they hold moisture and cause rot and disease.

I have got to prune three large rose beds this December. I like to do it early in the month but many of the books say to do it earlier in October. I find that it is too mild down here and they put on a lot of soft growth which is easily damaged. I prune out all the dead and damaged growth then reduce the good stems back to about four buds, leaving stems about six inches long. This technique suits bush roses of the hybrid Tea and floribunda types. For shrub roses like rugose and similar types, just remove the damaged and diseased parts and then tidy to shape. Do the same for the ground cover types. For all roses I like to give a generous amount of a slow release fertiliser now plus a liberal dressing of well-rotted farmyard manure. I find if you attempt to apply this later in the spring you knock off and damage young shoots, setting the plants back a while.

The shortest day is the traditional time to plant shallots. Pick a welldrained highly fertile spot with copious amounts of manure or garden compost added and push them into the soil with their necks just buried, spacing them between 9 and 12 inches apart. At this time of year they will take quite a time to make any progress and so often people wait until spring is with us before undertaking this task. When shallots are planted on the shortest day tradition dictates that they will be ready for harvesting on the longest day.

Over the Christmas and New Year it is customary to potter down to the greenhouse and sow seeds of large exhibition onions. Like all seeds, best results are obtained from clean travs and fresh dry potting or seed compost and new seed. Prepare a seed tray with some sieved compost, lightly firm it and soak it for a short while. Allow to drain then sow the seed sparingly on the surface and cover with another thin layer of sieved compost. Label the tray with its name and date. These seeds will need some heat so place the tray in a heated propagator at 65°F/18°C in good light in the greenhouse or similar place. The varieties to grow for this are Kelsae. Mammoth and Ailsae.

As the month goes on, some broad beans and peas started off in pots do well and you can sow the first of the lettuce and pointed cabbages like Greyhound and Hispi. This will help to fill the hungry gap during May and June.

I still need to get out and tidy around my daffodils. They need a weed and possibly a top dress of compost, which helps to keep the slugs and snails away when they flower ready for the spring show in March. The greenhouses need a good sort out, cutting back the chrysanthemums ready for them to produce cuttings material in early spring. Remove old annual plants and generally have a good tidy up. Try to have a proper wash down and disinfect the greenhouse before spring arrives and time is in short supply when you want to start sowing and growing in earnest once again.

Some shrubs I like to give a hard prune now are Buddleia davidii (Butterfly bush), Hypericums (St John's Wort), lads love and Leycestrias (Pheasant berries). This helps to maintain good compact floriferous shrubs. I normally take these back to six inches above ground level. In the spring a liberal application of fertiliser will work wonders.

When the weather is wet, windy and awful my advice is to just stay in and sit by the fire reading some catalogues and planning what seeds and plants you will grow next year. Even dare to dream of the glorious display that will behold your humble plot. Do what you can this winter and make sure you enjoy what you're doing, keep safe in doing so, spring will soon be upon us. As I pen the next instalment the snowdrops will be about to drop, now there's a thought, enjoy your gardening.

The Herbal Medicine Cabinet

by Deanne Greenwood BSc (Hons) Herb Med, MCPP

The Holly and the lvy', tra lah lah lah...

There are many medicinal plants associated with the festive season. Some may be of use if you find yourself suffering from symptoms of over-indulgence – which are quite common at this time of year. A surprising number are poisonous, by the way, although can safely be prescribed by a qualified herbalist.

Holly: The ancient druids bedecked their houses with holly leaves and berries (Hex aquifolium) to celebrate the winter solstice, and holly has long been associated with Christmas. In herbal medicine, it was traditionally used to treat fever, jaundice and rheumatism (oh, and smallpox!), although I don't know of any herbalists, myself included, who still use it. The berries are poisonous, the leaves are prickly!

Ivy: There is scientific evidence to support the use of Ivy leaf (Hedera helix) as a respiratory remedy, and you'll find it in a number of proprietary cough syrups. In herbal medicine, it's used as a tincture to help relieve bronchitis and asthma. Leaves and berries are toxic!

Frankincense: This medicinal plant has religious connotations, as it is said to have been one of the three gifts given to baby Jesus by the Three Wise Men. Frankincense (Boswellia serrata) is an excellent anti-inflammatory, and clinical trials support its use for arthritic conditions. It features in a lot of prescriptions I make up for musculoskeletal problems.

Myrrh: Myrrh (Commiphora molmol) belongs to the same botanical family as frankincense, and was another gift from the Three Wise Men. Myrrh makes a very effective antiseptic gargle for mouth and gum infections, such as sore throats, ulcers and gingivitis. It's another plant I use a lot in my herbal medicine practice.

Sweet chestnut: This tasty fruit may be very good roasted on an open fire (as feted by Nat King Cole in The Christmas Song!), but in herbal medicine we use the leaves of sweet chestnut (Castanea sativa) to make a tea, which can be used to help relieve coughs and clear catarrh, and gargled with for sore throats.

Mistletoe: Stealing a kiss beneath the mistletoe (Viscum alba) might set your pulse racing, but this potent medicinal plant actually helps reduce blood pressure and heart palpitations. There has also been a lot of research conducted into its cancer-fighting properties. Another highly poisonous plant in the wrong hands!

Milk thistle: One of the classic herbal detox and liver support remedies, milk thistle (Silybum marianum) is the one to consider taking in the New Year after too much rich food and wine. There are many proprietary brands of milk thistle concoctions on the market, but if you want to ensure you're taking something that is of good quality and contains enough of the active constituent to do the job, best to see a herbalist.

And finally... a remedy for festive flatulence! Too much rich food and alcohol can lead to windy weather fronts... if you get my drift! If flatulence is a problem, you'll be doing everyone a favour by having a cup of peppermint (Mentha piperata) or ginger (Zingiber officinale) tea laced with a teaspoon of crushed fennel (Foeniculum vulgare) and caraway (Carum carvi) seeds. Also good for heartburn and indigestion.

Wishing everyone a very jolly Christmas and New Year!

Launching Lifeboat was Task for Women

[This is an extract from a 1973 newspaper article about the Cadgwith Lifeboat. It was given to me by Rose Bowcher, who pointed out that her late mother is mentioned, along with several other much missed residents of the Parish. Ed]

This photo accompanied the newspaper article with the caption:

"The scene at the christening of the former Cadgwith lifeboat, Guide of Dunkirk, on June 14, 1947. It was withdrawn in 1967."

..... Right up to 1967 there were [life]boats at The Lizard and Cadgwith. The Cadgwith lifeboat has now been withdrawn, but the association with lifeboats will never die. For centuries the majority of men in the crews at both Lizard and Cadgwith have come from Cadgwith village.

The first and second coxswains of the Duke of Cornwall, Bunny Legg and Anthony Jane, both live in Cadgwith, as did the last coxswain of the Cadgwith boat, Henry Jane, the brother of Anthony. The Stephens family, of Cadgwith, once had seven men serving on the two boats.

It is not only the men who devote their time, energy and skill to the lifeboat. During the last war most of the young men of the village were away and when the boat had to be launched it was the women who did the job. When the maroon went up, they would drop anything they were doing and run, hauling on the ropes to get the boat into the water. One of these was Miss May Carter, now a sprightly 67-year-old and living up the hill in Ruan Minor. She was born in Cadgwith and lived there for 64 years. One of her neighbours in the old people's bungalows in Glebe Place is Miss Flossie Stephens, another of the band of women who put their shoulder to the ropes.

Two others still living in Cadgwith are Mrs Ellen Bartlett, of Ruminella View and Mrs Ruby Bolitho who lives at Man-o-War. All these brave ladies are in their sixties. They can't haul on a rope now, but there were many times during the war that they heaved and strained to get the boat to the water. "The older men used to make up the crew during the war years", said Miss Carter. "But we women were the ones who went down to pull the boat out.

"Any time of the day or night we pulled her out - and we could get her in the water in under 11 minutes. ......
